SHIPPING GOLD COIN.

How the Pieces are Packed—The Red Tape Process.

Gold coin for shipment to Europe is packed in kegs, each keg containing $50,000. Specie is not thrown loosely into a keg nor, upon the other hand, it is carefully wrapped in tissue paper and piled upon another. The keg serves only as a protection for canvas bags, into which the gold is placed in the ordinary hit-and-miss fashion of pennies in a Jersey farmer's wallet. The canvas of these bags is especially stout and the ends are sewed particularly strong. In the interests of security each keg is treated to what is technically known among the shippers as the "red-taping" process. At each end of the keg, in the projecting rims of the staves above the head, are bored four holes at equidistant intervals. A piece of red tape is run through these holes, crossing on the head of the keg, and the ends finally meet in the center. At the point of meeting the tape is sealed to the keg's head by hard wax bearing the stamp of the shipper. Any meddling with them break the tape or wax, and so on the trip across the ocean it is an easy matter to watch the valuable consignment and detect any attempt to interfere with it.

Gold crosses the ocean very much as does every other kind of freight. Years ago there were some shippers who detailed an employe with every consignment to act as a sort of detective and hold a watch as best he could over their kegs. No such care is ever taken now. As a rule, the gold shipped is insured. Safely watched until on shipboard, the precious freight is then under the control of the vessel authorities and the marine insurance companies, and upon these parties is all responsibility placed. The average rate of insurance is about £350—something over $1,700—upon a shipment of $1,000,000. There are shippers who do not insure, or rather they insure themselves in Wall street, which sent some $30,000,000 abroad last year, paid no taxes to any insurance company. The savings thus effected amounted to about $50,000. In maintaining this policy of no insurance, these shippers say that their savings on this account since they have been in business have been such as would enable them to lose outright a shipment of $1,000,000 or more, and still have a balance to their credit in the fund which they have set aside in the their own house instead of paying it out for insurance. Carefully choosing the steamers upon which to place consignments, they discount all probability of disaster. A rule, however, the shippers who does not insure divides up his consignments. Having to ship $1,000,000 he will give it in equal parts to four or five different vessels. It is a strict rule with some Wall street firms never to trust more than $250,000 at a time on any one ship.

One of the singular circumstances connected with the shipping of gold is that for the last twenty-years or more every keg which has been taken out of Wall street has been handed down to the vessels by one man, "honest old John Barkley," who is said to have grown rich in the business. For each keg he takes on board his truck he is paid $1, and the big heavy one he has had built for the special purpose will carry $2,000,000, or forty kegs. A similar monopoly is held by Cooper Spier, who furnishes all the kegs and packs them, getting $2 for each one completed.

In shipping specie there are many matters of detail which the experienced man knows to be of prime importance, but which, to a person unacquainted with the business, seems valueless. For instance, in making ready a shipment of $1,000,000 to Europe the ordinary individual would be quite as willing to bag five-dollar pieces as double-eagles. Not so the shipper who has his eye upon the main chance. He demands the double-eagles every time. Chief among the reasons for his choice is the fact that specie shipped in any quantity for any considerable distance always losses, in weight, and consequently in value, through abrasion. While a five-thousand-dollar bag made up of five-dollar coins would contain 1,000 pieces, the same sum in double-eagles would take only 250 pieces.

In the latter instance there is not much if any more than one-fourth of the chance for abrasion which exists in the former. Eight five-dollar pieces show a greater surface and have much sharper coinage lines than do double eagles, and the loss by abrasion on a long, rough ocean voyage must, of course, be considerably greater with coins of lesser value. The uninitiated would be apt to smile when told that there is a loss—and one of consequence—by this abrasion of coins. Circumstances, varying on different voyages, of course, produce variance in the extent of the abrasion. "On an average," said a prominent shipper "a million of dollars sent across to London will lose—will lose—well a few dollars. Oh, that's definite enough." What the Wall street man considered a "few dollars" was shown by reference to the account books of one of the heaviest houses in the street. Taking shipments of $1,000,000 recently made, one was found to have fallen short in the voyage of a fraction more than nine ounces, another a fraction more than eighteen ounces, another a fraction more than nineteen ounces, while in a shipment of $750,000 there was a loss of a fraction more than twenty ounces. The average loss can safely be estimated at sixteen ounces on a million dollar shipment. Gold, being worth $16 an ounce, sends the "few dollars" up to about $250.

The only protection to be found against abrasion lies in the shipment of gold bars instead of in coin. Until quite recently, however, gold bars have not been obtainable. To secure them the shipper has been obliged to pay a premium, and generally so high was that premium placed by the bullion brokers commanding the situation that the possible loss by abrasion would not by means balance it. But not long ago a change came over this condition of affairs, and a law has been passed recently by congress allowing the sub-treasury here to pass out fine gold bars from its vaults in exchange for national coin.

There is occasionally an interesting item of expense of another nature, the mere entry of which on an account book would be apt to puzzle the man not acquainted with all the petty details of shipping. "Sixty bags" is the charge recently sent from London to one big New York shipper. This signified that the cooper here in fastening the iron bands upon the specie kegs tore the bags containing the coin. The result was that the London agents of the New York house were obliged to re-pack every bag so torn, be the hole every so slight, before it could be placed on the English market. The cost of new bags was a trivial matter, but it is of trivial matters that the man who handles millions is generally most careful.

An irritable pun: When Fogg, went to look for rooms in the apartment house, he was shown about the premises by a handsome piece of calico—young, bright and rosy—as ever gladdened the eye of a bachelor. "What suit do you think you should prefer, sir?" she asked. Fogg says he could not help it if he was to die for it, and he replied in his most killing manner, "Sweet sixteen." "From what she said," added Fogg, "I somehow got the impression that 'sweet sixteen' was already engaged."—Boston Transcript.

His idea of prayer: "I tell yer wot, boys," exclaimed old Ben, the roughest man of the camp; "I tell yer wot, boys, it made a feller feel kinder watery around the lids to hear that little chit of a thing a-sitting up thar alike an angel, a-sayin' her prayers so cute, 'Mary had a little lamb,' or sunthin er that sort."

Adam Forepaugh's elephant Bolivar got on a rampage at Muncie, Ind., on Tuesday, trashing all his companions and fighting his keeper for two hours.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce JAMES P. HARBESON, of Fleming county, as a candidate for Congress, subject to the action of the Democracy in convention assembled.

We are authorized to announce Col. J. SMITH HURT, of Bath County, as a candidate for Congress in the 9th Congressional District at the next November election. Subject to the action of the democratic party.

The chances now are that congress will not adjourn before August.

WHEAT in Bourbon county is selling for one dollar a bushel, July delivery.

SMALLPOX has broken out among the negroes at Winchester. Six new cases were reported in one day.

JULY returns to the Department of Agriculture from all States and Territories of the United States indicate an increase of area planted in corn exceeding four per cent. or fully two and a half million acres.

THE investigation into the causes of the disaster to the steamer Scioto at Mingo Junction, July 4th, was begun at Wheeling, on the 11th inst. The testimony seemed to prove that the pilot of the boat was not intoxicated as has been reported.

A TELEGRAM from Boston reports that the effect of the Egyptian muddle is felt in the markets of East India merchandise. The fear of damage to the Suez Canal has made shellac, cutch, etc., firmer, while gum arabic has advanced from 6 to 8 cents per pound.

THE result of the first day of the bombardment of Alexandria is not encouraging to the Egyptian authorities. The English ships engaged were the Inflexible, Temeraire, Penelope, Superb, Sultan, Invincible, Alexandria and Monarch. The ships opened fire about 7 o'clock on the morning, and continued until nearly 7 in the evening. Four of the forts were blown up during that time. Twelve officers and men landed from the Inflexible under cover of the fire of the Condor and Bittern, and destroyed one of the forts with dynamite. The British loss is five killed and twenty-seven wounded.

WE have called the attention of our Irish citizens to the importance of supporting their countryman, in the coming election, and we believe they will, to a man, rally to his aid, from now until the close of the contest. We would also remind, all democrats of their duty in the premises, for it is as much the duty of native Americans to support the nominees, as it is, our foreign born citizens. In fact, we should set them an example, and no one should falter. Our majority would be slim indeed, were our faithful Irish voters to desert us, and we should see, that no cause is given them to become dissatisfied at the result of the coming August election. We should remember that we are upon the eve of a congressional race, and we will need a united front to repel the enemy. Ponder well the situation, and act for the best interest of our party.

The newspapers say Mary Anderson lives a very secluded life at Long Branch. Most of her time is passed playing with her little step-sister and brothers upon the lawn of her pretty place. She rides on horseback a great deal, and sails considerably on the Shrewsbury river. She is never seen at any of the hotels, and goes very little into society.

ALL persons attending the re-union of the old Breckenridge Brigade should purchase through tickets to the Blue Licks, so that transportation can be provided for from Carlisle to the Springs.

MASTER JOHN WEST, who is employed at J. C. Pecor & Co.'s drug store, was thrown from a horse at Watkins' pasture this morning, and had his right arm broken between the elbow and wrist.

THOSE who desire to contribute money towards the erection of a monument on the Blue Lick battle grounds, will find a contribution box at the Central Hotel, which has been placed there by the Monumental Association.

THE new fan blast lately introduced in the blacksmith shop of the Eagle Plow Works beside being a great convenience will effect a saving in both labor and fuel. It was put up under the supervision of Mr. James H. Hall, jr., and is a work of which he may justly feel proud as it reflects creditably upon his mechanical skill and ingenuity.

Resolutions of Respect.

It is again our sad duty to record the death of another one of our members. This time God has taken from us our beloved brother James Hamer, after one short week of sickness. All along a patient sufferer he expressed a strong desire to get well, but at last willingly gave his soul back to the God who gave it, departing this life July 8th, 1882, aged twenty-one years. The home circle has lost a dear and loving brother, his wife a loving husband, while his associates have lost a friend which time can never replace, for to know him was to love him, yet his dying words are sufficient evidence that his soul is at rest with God. He has called him away to that home where all is joy and peace. He is not in the cold cheerless tomb; the soul cannot be confined in the narrow prison. How precious a thought that there is a refuge from the sin and suffering of this life. How wretched our race if we were condemned to live forever in this world of sorrow. There is much in this world to render it pleasant and attractive to an appreciative mind; but the soul cries out for something that is not found here. The religion of the heaven of the bible meet this want and offer to man all that this life lacks of producing. Perfect happiness to the home of the soul has our brother gone, let us sorrow not as those who have no hope.

His funeral took place from his late residence Monday morning at 9 1/2 o'clock; the services were conducted by Rev. H. D. Rice, who delivered a very interesting and appropriate sermon. He was followed to his last resting place by a large concourse of relatives and friends and by the band with their instruments in deep mourning.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Aberdeen Cornet and Reed Band:

WHEREAS, Death has again entered our ranks and taken from us another member. Resolved, That we, the members of the band, express the heartfelt sorrow that we feel occasioned by the death of our esteemed and worthy member, James Hamer, who was so suddenly taken from the scenes of this life to that bourne where accidents never happen and the pangs of death are felt no more.

Resolved, That we submissively bow to this dispensation of an all-wise God, and that we tender our heartfelt sympathies to the widow and relatives of the deceased in this their sudden and sad bereavement.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread on the minutes and a copy be sent to the wife and relatives of the deceased.

GUS. E. SORRIES, Secretary,
Aberdeen Cornet and Reed Band.

Bibbero's Swim.

Professor Marquis Bibbero made his third attempt to swim across the East River with his feet and hands tied, and it is asserted, says the New York Times, that he succeeded in the attempt. Mr. Richard K. Fox had wagered $250 that Professor Bibbero could accomplish the feat and Mr. La Brie, of the firm of McCoy & La Brie, had wagered the same sum that he could not. Professor Bibbero was to have three chances. He tried first on May 31st was caught by the current, and after drifting to Governor's Island, threw up his bound hands and was taken into a boat which accompanied him in his swim. In June he made another attempt, and this time, too he was unsuccessful. The current took him far out of his course, and after paddling like a dog for some time he was obliged to call for aid, and he was dragged into the boat. On both of these occasions he had attempted to swim the East River from this city to Brooklyn and on both occasions the effort was made when the tide was at flood. Newspaper reporters were invited to meet Bibbero, yesterday, at 11 a. m., at No. 91 South street, and witness his third attempt; but at the hour named, when the reporters reached the spot, it was announced that he had started from the Brooklyn side, and was already half-way across the river; and soon after he appeared in the saloon. The story of his exploit was told as follows: He was rowed over from No. 91 South street at 10:20 a. m., and reached a point in the East River about twenty-five yards from Jewell's dock at 10:55. In the boat with him were Charles Sherer, referee; Frank Collins and Thos. Coody. As soon as the boat reached the point selected for the beginning of Bibbero's swim he began to disrobe himself. His arms were pinioned behind his back, so that they could not be moved. Then his feet were tied, a strong rope being fastened around each ankle, and the two ankles being drawn together by another rope. Referee Sherer superintended these arrangements, and when all were completed Bibbero, at 11:10, was gently pushed over the side of the boat. He disappeared for a moment, and then rose to the surface and puffed from his mouth a stream of water, such as a young whale might eject upon coming to the surface. He lay upon his side and began to kick with his feet, his hands remaining perfectly motionless. He moved swiftly through the water toward the New York shore, and at 11:20 a. m., was under the great bridge and half-way across the course which he had marked out in starting. He propelled himself from this time on until 11:28, when he was abreast of the Roosevelt street pier. Here a ferryboat was about starting out, and the referee decided that the Professor should be pulled from the water. He was taken from the river at half past eleven, having been just twenty minutes in the water. When taken out he was but ten yards from shore. It was the verdict in McCoy & La Brie's saloon that Professor Bibbero had won his $250, and the referee said that Mr. La Brie would be called on to pay the money. Mr. McCoy paid the Professor $100, which he had agreed to pay him in case he accomplished the feat. Mr. McCoy said he could not afford to pay this money, as he had been aggregating $1,300 which he had won by the accomplishment of the feat. Richard K. Fox was not present when the swim was made, and nobody witnessed it except the referee and the parties in the boat above mentioned. The distance covered, according to those who were in the boat, was about three-quarters of a mile, and time exactly twenty minutes.

Noticeable.

One of the most noticeable features in the books and periodicals published and speeches made by public men during the last decade is the marked falling off in real and genuinely humorous banter. And this falling off is not confined to England, but is to be found in the literature of every other country with the exception of America.—Court Circular.

"Is this 'er postoffice?" inquired Cauliflower, slightly disfigured after nineteen rounds of sour mash. "No, this is a butcher shop," replied the sarcastic mailing clerk, licking a faded one-cent stamp. "Sho! ish that so? Well, give me a tender-line for my muzzer."—Quincy Modern Argosy.

The present is the living sum total of the whole past.—Cartier.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.
ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880.
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a rib-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours,
P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.

Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.
KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO. Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. j27d.

BATCHELDER'S

Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensable to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case without rehandling.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, adding, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

PRICES IN CHICAGO.

Shipper's No. 1, 30 doz. Case with Fillers complete.....65 Cents.

Farmer's No. 1, 18 doz. Case with Fillers complete.....55 Cents.

Cardboard Fillers for refilling 20 Cents.

15 per cent. discount on lots of 100 cases.

Batchelder's Egg Tester, testing 6 doz. at once, saves to buyers many times its cost each season. Price $3.00.

By special arrangements made by the manufacturers at this case most Railroads will receive them as fourth class freight.

The 18 dozen case made especially for Farmers' use, sent to any address by express, with out nailing, with full directions for setting up, on receipt of 50 cents. Every Farmer and consumer should have one of these cases, it will save its cost every month. Agents wanted in every county. Address,
